Oktoberfest 2023: WC Volunteers Needed

By Cassidy Johnson

Mark your calendars to attend this community staple! Oktoberfest, the annual German festival, is returning to Southlake for its 21st year.

During the upcoming Oktoberfest event, held Friday, Oct. 13 – Sunday, Oct. 15, Southlake will host many vendors and guests in Southlake Town Square. People will come from all over the DFW area to enjoy German food and drinks, crafts and vendors, activities, live music, and the well-known Wiener Dog Race & costume contest.

In past years, more than 20,000 people have attended this family-fun festival. The church will return to the local staple, for its eighth year, to greet members of the community and welcome guests to Southlake.

About 50 volunteers are needed to help greet people with the same warm hospitality that we experience at the church. Participants will hand out God Is Big Enough bracelets and provide church information for those wanting to get more involved with White's Chapel. Volunteer shifts are available during various times. People are needed to help set up, greet, and/or tear down. Individuals and family members can sign up online. After finishing their shift, volunteers are encouraged to walk around the festival and enjoy the fun.

While the Southlake Oktoberfest event has been offered for a little over two decades, similar celebrations have been held for over a century. The original Oktoberfest was held in celebration of a royal wedding in October of 1810.

THIRD GRADE BIBLES

Last weekend, more than 100 kids recited their favorite Bible verse and received their very own Bible! We are so proud of our third graders, and we pray that God continues to guide them as they read the Word.

October Communion Offering Dedicated to Food Distribution

Many of our White's Chapel volunteer teams have worked tirelessly in the heat of summer to provide a supply of food for area families surrounding GRACE in Grapevine and O.H. Stowe Elementary in Haltom City. Those efforts will continue throughout the fall and winter.

This weekend, offerings collected through communion will be specifically designated to buy turkeys for Thanksgiving meals for many local families experiencing food deprivation.

"Our hearts have been touched," said Rev. Joy Roberson, Director of Missions. "We would really like to increase their normal supply of food this month as well as provide turkeys and Thanksgiving fixings for each of our communities."

The White's Chapel Mobile Market has especially made an impact in serving our targeted communities.

"White's Chapel has had our mobile market for just over a year now," said Lisa Barham, the MM volunteer coordinator. "We currently service two locations. At our Grapevine location, clients of GRACE are able to have a shopping experience and select food they would like."

"At our second location— O.H. Stowe Elementary in Haltom City— our clients are provided boxes or bags of food

"The Invitation" Bible Based Art Exhibit Opens in October

"The Invitation," a Bible-based art exhibit, will be on display in the Narthex beginning Oct. 1. The exhibit will feature Keller artist Brittany Scott.

"The most meaningful moments in my life have come through creation," says Scott. "I want to spend the rest of my life promoting creation in others and facilitating experiences for viewers to experience creation in a transcendent way."

Throughout her early training and career, Scott says she has been given unique opportunities to work with and learn from various mentors, "continually propelling [her] forward towards the next thing [she needs] to focus on."

Throughout this process, She has come to firmly believe that collaboration as an artist has done more for her career, as well as her community and the careers of others than does competition.

"The countless hours I have spent discussing art and learning from artists across the board have helped me to define and redefine my purpose as well as the direction I take with my work. I hope to always allow myself to be open to not only collaboration, but to building

Sunday Worship Will Feature Carl Tanner

International opera star Carl Tanner will assist in White's Chapel worship on Sunday, Oct. 1 in the Foundation Worship Service at 11 a.m. in the sanctuary.

Tanner is currently in Dallas performing with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Fabio Luisi.

After graduating from Washington-Lee High School in Arlington, Virginia, he attended the Shenandoah Conservatory of Music at Shenandoah University in Winchester, Virginia where, in 1985, he earned a bachelor's degree. Upon his return to Arlington, he enrolled in the Northern Virginia Trucking Academy and spent the next several years as a big rig truck driver. To earn extra money, he moonlighted as a modern-day bounty hunter for Arlington-area bail bondsmen.

A turning point for Tanner came one day while he was inching his way along Interstate 95 in the cab of his 18-wheeler, singing the Giacomo Puccini aria "E lucevan le stelle" from Act III of Tosca

QUEST-ions...

“It is not the answer that enlightens, but the question.”
 – Eugene Ionesco

By Dr. Todd Renner

Why is the sky blue? Where does the wind come from? How much does the earth weigh?

We stammer, and we stutter... but the questions children ask can push us to our limits – to the limits of our knowledge and to the limits of our faith – because, to many of us, these are just the easy questions. What about those questions they have about God? And about life?

And about death? What about their questions about disease and violence and the presence of evil in our world? How do we respond? How to we answer their profoundly innocent curiosity when we, ourselves, have the same questions? How do we answer them when we, like Nicodemus, know that there's so much that we don't know?

Maybe that's the root of our hesitancy to speak into the lives of our children. Perhaps that's the heart of our reluctance to be the spiritual leaders and mentors that our kids need us to be – but we do so at our own peril... and to their peril, too.

Shakespeare once wrote that “the voice of parents is the voice of gods, for to their children they are heaven's lieutenants.” To come to grips with this reality is for us to understand the incredibly important role that we are called to fulfill as mothers and fathers, as grandmothers and grandfathers, as aunts, uncles, cousins, as blood kin and as “families of the heart” – those precious families that we have been adopted into. It is to figure out and to strengthen the foundations of our families. It is to own our vital position in the spiritual formation of our children, to let them know that our faith is important to us, to let them see our own growth and our own questions. They need to see us standing on holy ground, dumbstruck into holy silence by the sheer majesty and mystery of the Lord.

You see, it isn't important for us to have all of the answers. We just need to be willing to pursue the questions. It's not our call to master all knowledge or to grasp all wisdom. It's simply to grab hold of those moments and to gently shepherd their questions – to let our kids (regardless of their age) know that we struggle, too. They need to know and become comfortable with the fact that we don't have all the answers, that we don't have “it” all figured out... in fact, that we're not supposed to. For in those times when we dare to speak the ancient words of faith “I don't know,” we open the door to be able to say that faith is that place in our lives where we believe despite our ignorance, where we trust despite our not-knowing... it's where we choose – even with all our questions – to follow a God who holds the whole world in His hands! (And just for future reference, the earth is estimated to weigh 5,972 sextillion tons, that's 18 zeroes.)

By the way, this past Sunday, we celebrated 106 third graders as they received their Bibles – maybe the first of their lives. It's a profound and powerful rite of passage that's been observed in our church for decades. I mention this only to ask you to join us in prayer: that our young people will fall in love with the Bible, that they will dig into it and live out of it. Please join in our prayer that their questions will abound!

You see, it isn't important for us to have all of the answers. We just need to be willing to pursue the questions.

The Lord's Table

Every Sunday at White's Chapel, we are offered Holy Communion, which is one of two sacraments recognized in the Methodist tradition - the other being Baptism. A sacrament is defined as "an outward sign of inward grace, and a means whereby we receive the same" (John Wesley, from sermon "Means of Grace"). In other words, God uses material, tangible things as instruments of grace in a sacrament: water in Baptism and bread and grape juice in Holy Communion. In baptism, we receive our identity and mission as Christians. When we receive communion, we receive spiritual nourishment that sustains us in our faith journey.

The grace we receive at the Lord's Table enables us to be the hands and feet of Jesus Christ in this world and shapes us as a faith community. Holy Communion, also known as Eucharist and The Lord's Supper, is an act of thanksgiving for God's mighty acts in history and a time to remember Christ's sacrifice for us. When we celebrate Holy Communion, we follow Jesus' commandment to do this in remembrance of him. Forgetting is all too easy, even when we have the best intentions.

Also deeply rooted in Methodism is the oral tradition of an open table, which simply means that church or denominational membership is not required to receive communion. Christ our Lord invites to his table ALL who earnestly repent of their sin, seek to live in peace together, and love the Lord. The importance of inclusion cannot be understated when considering the sacrament of Holy Communion. Which leads us to the question - Who is missing at our Lord's Table?

WC Care and Support wants to extend Holy Communion to those who are missing at our Lord's Table. If you currently are homebound or unable to be physically present at a worship service, we want to extend the Lord's Table to you in your home once a month, Monday-Thursday. If you or someone you love would like to receive home communion, please contact Dianne Will at dwill@whiteschapel.org. As this ministry grows, opportunities for volunteering to serve may arise.

A reception welcoming and honoring the exhibit will be held Oct. 7 from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

"The Invitation" is a show that will definitely move all who see it," said Brenda Wyatt, White's Chapel Art Coordinator. "The artist tells us her spiritual inspirations for each painting, the Bible verses they are based on and even guides us through her process. It is a 'must see' show that will awaken a deeper understanding and connection to the gospel thru the eyes of an artist."

to pass the time, when a woman in a convertible in the next lane called up to him: "Is that you, or is that the radio?" "That's me, lady," Tanner replied. "Well then, you've missed your calling," the woman declared. "You should be singing for a living, not driving."

Soon thereafter, Tanner decided to embark upon a musical career. With the support of his employer, he moved to New York City in 1990 and, in late 1991 while working as a singing waiter in the restaurant Bianchi and Margarita's, he was heard by Richard Gaddes, the head of the Santa Fe Opera, who arranged for him to join the Apprentice Program for Singers for 1992 (and then 1993) to obtain more training.

Tanner has established an international performance career with appearances at the world's most prestigious opera houses including the Metropolitan Opera and La Scala in Italy. Additionally, the American tenor has performed in the Opera House, Covent Garden, and the Washington National Opera, as well as international opera houses in Paris, Tokyo, Berlin, Florentino, Madrid, and Barcelona.

Oktoberfest

According to various historical sites, the Crown Prince Ludwig, later to become King Ludwig I, was married to Princess Therese of Saxony-Hildburghausen. The citizens of Munich were invited to attend the festivities held on the fields in front of the city gates to celebrate the royal event. The celebration continued to be recognized in the years that followed, and it became a tradition for the local people.

Now, it is a celebration not only for German people but also for people all over the globe. Even though Munich has the largest festival in the world, Addison, Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth, McKinney, Granbury, Southlake, and Fredericksburg are just some of the places in Texas that also offer Oktoberfest events.

For more information about Southlake's Oktoberfest, please visit www.southlakechamber.org/oktoberfest. Admission is free and the festival is dog friendly.

that are put directly into their vehicles. This is a larger market with up to 300 families coming for food. We have a large following now in this established neighborhood, and numbers continue to grow."

Barham pointed out that regardless of the location, the need for food is staggering.

"This ministry keeps growing in both communities with new locations on the horizon," she said. "We see the same families each month, moms coming after work with two to five kids in their cars, dads stopping by on their way home and each person is met with a smiling face and loving volunteers. The need continues to grow, families are finding it harder and harder to make their money stretch. Each month we are signing up new families and they are all so appreciative and grateful."

The Tarrant Area Food Bank provides much of the food for these clients. The Mobile Market works with them by providing added protein so these families can enjoy a meal that includes meat, something that is a delicacy for many of them. Food is provided on the first and second Thursday of each month.

Volunteers are working on the logistics to either schedule an additional Mobile Market event, or at least let the families know that turkeys will be available for them.

"As a church, we are blessed to be able to fill a huge need in communities with great needs," said Barham. "The mobile market leadership team thought it would be a great idea to provide a Thanksgiving meal for the families we serve. Regardless of how we get the turkeys to them, we know this will make so many people excited and happy to receive meat for their families that can stretch into multiple meals. We serve a lot of clients with at least 5-10 people in their family."

Roberson is excited about the idea of providing turkeys for Thanksgiving. "One of the biggest blessings of the Mobile Market is the capability of transporting such items to the community," she said. "Our hope is that each family can come through the line and choose for themselves a Thanksgiving feast."

As always, 100 percent of the monies collected through the communion offering will go toward this cause.

November Communion Offering

Looking ahead, our November communion offering will be for the Thanksgiving Boxes that we provide for local schools and nonprofits. The White's Chapel Missions Team reaches out to our network of agencies and schools to secure names of families in need of food assistance. Our congregation comes together to provide food, and on Super Saturday, we meet to pack items and put this all together. Last year, we packed over 300 boxes with more than 350 volunteers.

This year, the Super Saturday packing event will be on Nov. 18, with sorting and packing happening on Friday, Nov. 17. We will also need delivery volunteers to take these boxes to participating schools and agencies on Nov. 18.

The food drive will begin Nov. 5. Lists will be provided for the food donation items.

Labyrinth Walk

Wednesdays | Oct. 4, Nov. 1 & Dec. 6
9 a.m. | WC Labyrinth

A labyrinth is an ancient symbol that relates to wholeness. It combines the imagery of the circle and spiral into a meandering but purposeful path. Labyrinths have long been used as meditation and prayer tools and are a part of the pilgrimage path to wholeness and holiness. At its most basic level, the labyrinth is a metaphor for the journey to the center of your deepest self and back out into the world with a broadened understanding of who you are.

Join Rev. Victor Resendiz as he leads participants through a prayer walk. The labyrinth is located next to the Center for Spiritual Care. Whether you are familiar with this unique spiritual practice or not, you are invited to experience this sacred space. All are welcome; please register online.
